

Visit to the UN Information Centre for India & Bhutan , New Delhi

A group of ten students along with a teacher visited the UN Information Centre for India & Bhutan, New Delhi on 27th March'18, representing Delhi Public School, Gurgaon on the occasion of International Day of Remembrance of the victims of slavery transatlantic slave trade.

As we reached we were shown an informative and very exciting poster exhibition which focused on displaying the African-Americans who achieved great goals in life.

It was followed by a film screening which further gave us an insight into the African cultures and rituals. The African culture is indeed filled with vibrancy, colours and joy. The film also took us into the details of the horrifying transatlantic Slave Trade. The film's name was "Familiar Faces, Unexpected Places: A famous African Diaspora"

Last but not the least, we had an eye opening discussion with two powerful and strong women Ms. Savya Seth and Ms. Peggy Mohan about Slave trade, bonded labour and human trafficking. Ms. Savya Seth and Ms. Peggy Mohan have worked with the victims of slave trade and human trafficking. Both of them are still striving hard to rescue more and more victims and spread awareness among the people.

One important lesson we all learnt was that as young people we must realize the importance of equality and dignity of the people. It was certainly a memorable and enriching experience.
