

"Exposure to literature is a sure-fire way to evolve into a sensitive human being."

- Vineeta Jerath, Co-founder & Editor, Suburb

'Are you Lit', a literature festival by 'Suburb' magazine and 'tsp' (The Stories People) organized for the first time on January 28th and 29th, 2023 received an enthusiastic response. The organizers created an appropriate ambience with books, lights and a special installation. The participants were published authors who are students, heads of top corporates and renowned people from different walks of life.

Students of Delhi Public School, Sector-45, Gurgaon who are published writers participated in the event.

Yagya Dhingra, a grade X student who penned down a story that was published in Scholastic Writers Academy book called Fabula, was invited to be a panelist. The multi-talented young writer won accolades for his confident speech and well-articulated responses. The panel of students got a standing ovation from an appreciate audience.

Interesting sessions organized at the festival were related to literature and other creative fields like art and textiles. These were interactive and engaging. The festival provided a much needed space for exchange of thoughts and gave a boost to budding authors.
