Nestled in the town of Sanganer, we reached 'Kagzi' - the local handmade paper industry which has its historic roots tracing back to 14th century, in manufacturing paper by hand. The entire process of making paper was an eye opener experience for all of us. Trained artisans were deriving paper from recycled waste of the textile industry, adding on to an ecofriendly, sustainable carefully crafted paper and paper products.

It was an enriching and engaging experience for all the teachers of the Art department to be a part of this workshop.
