'Reading is a gateway skill that makes all other learning possible.'

-Barack Obama

The Junior Wing of DPS, Sector-45, Gurgaon, celebrated Book Week with great enthusiasm from 21st April 2025 to 24th April 2025. The event aimed at highlighting the importance of books in our lives and nurturing a lifelong love for reading among students. The entire week was a celebration of imagination, curiosity, and learning filled with activities that brought the joy of reading to life.

A variety of engaging activities were organized for students of classes III to V, including 'My World of Books' and 'Books Are My Best Friends'. Students enthusiastically expressed their thoughts on how books enrich their lives, sharing insights into their favourite authors and stories. These activities encouraged young minds to think, reflect and connect with each other over a shared love of literature.

A special highlight of the week was the DEAR (Drop Everything And Read) programme, where students and teachers paused their routine work to immerse themselves in reading. This initiative beautifully extended beyond classrooms, with parents and grandparents joining in by reading at their homes and workplaces and sending pictures of the same. Their wholehearted participation made the event even more meaningful.

The grand finale of the Book Week featured an inspiring interaction with renowned author Ms. Divya Anand, organized in collaboration with Libration. She captivated the students with her journey as an author and shared valuable insights into the world of writing and storytelling. Her session was both motivating and enlightening for the budding readers and writers in the audience.

The celebration truly brought alive the magic of books and left an indelible mark on everyone. It reinforced the idea that reading not only fuels the imagination but also builds empathy, knowledge and confidence.
