

Annual Coordinators' Conference

An Annual Coordinators' Conference was conducted by Cambridge University Press on 19th August 2023 at The Metropolitan Hotel, New Delhi. The workshop was attended by Ms Survi Sinha and Ms Arti Tuteja.

A day-long professional development Conference on 'Empowering Yourself as a Teacher: Strategies for Building Confidence in the Classroom' was organized for educators to hone their skills. The workshop was conducted by Ms Ruchi Tomar.

The workshop commenced with an ice breaking session on 'To find someone who....' where teachers got to know each other better. This was followed by engaging the teachers in self-assessment to identify their strengths fostering a sense of self-awareness crucial for building confidence. Practical tips were shared for handling disruptions, creating structure, and maintaining a conducive learning environment, enhancing teachers' classroom management. Interactive sessions were introduced for innovative teaching methods, allowing teachers to feel more competent in their instructional approach. Emphasis was placed on celebrating small victories, promoting a cycle of positive reinforcement to boost teachers' self-esteem.

The strategies gained will enable educators to create an empowered and inspiring learning environment.

The session ended with a presentation on the various tests conducted by Cambridge encouraging schools to help students benefit from them. They further presented an insight into the changes in these Cambridge Examinations.

It was an overall very informative and enriching experience.
