HARMONY IN DIVERSITY

On 2nd May, 2025, students of Middle Wing enthusiastically engaged in INTACH activities to commemorate World Cultural Diversity Day, where students focused on reviving traditional Indian crafts—Phulkari from Punjab and Blue Pottery from Rajasthan—through art, while also encouraging sustainability by using recycled materials.

In this hands-on session, students decorated used paper bags with vibrant Phulkari and intricate Blue Pottery motifs. Guided by visual references and brief demonstrations, the young participants explored the beauty of these folk-art traditions, learning about their historical and cultural significance. Phulkari, known for its colourful floral embroidery patterns, and Blue Pottery, famous for its distinctive cobalt blue and white designs, offered rich inspiration for the student's artwork.

The activity not only fostered creativity but also instilled a sense of environmental responsibility. By repurposing old paper bags instead of using new materials, students understood the importance of reducing waste and embracing eco-friendly practices. This initiative successfully highlighted INTACH's dual mission of heritage education and environmental awareness, encouraging young minds to value and preserve both cultural and natural resources.
