'Planspiel, a simulation game'

Planspiel, a simulation game was organised by Goethe Institut on an international platform on 28th September, 2023. Students from Delhi Public School, Sector 45, Gurgaon along with the students of Schadow Gymnasium, Berlin, Germany participated in an online round table conference where they deliberated on measures for controlling climate change and creating sustainable living conditions in a fictional city named "Fonta".

Students were divided into 10 organisations, where they teamed up with the Berlin students. Each organisation entered into useful negotiations to protect their interests and transform Fonta into a climate friendly and livable city of the future.

The game was played on an online platform called SENARYON. The whole roundtable session was divided into 8 phases, including the ballot session in the end. It was a fruitful and enriching session where the participants learnt, deliberated, discussed and had a lot of fun.
