

Delhi Public School Gurgaon participated in a partnership project between Thames Festival Trust and the British Council, called the 'River of Hope'. This arts-based project, linking schools around the world through the study of rivers and climate change, forms the central part of the Queen's Platinum Jubilee celebrations. Students around the world participated in the project with a belief to bring about a change and address some pertinent environmental issues, through their art work.

Anushka Daw, a student of class X, participated in the event and her painting depicting River Ganga was selected as one of the few paintings to be exhibited at the Buckingham Palace, London.

Following the pageant, the prestigious flag of Delhi Public School, Gurgaon will be displayed as part of a public exhibition, at the National Maritime museum in Greenwich from 26th to 30th October 2022, thus bringing laurels to the school.
